präsentiert im Rahmen des Forschungsseminars "Familien- und Geschlechterbeziehungen in Südasien im Wandel'

einen Dokumentarilm von Pankaj Rishi Kumar

(Indien 2008, 74min)

mit anschließender Diskussion mit dem Regisseur

The film is a journey into the sweet science of boxing being practiced by two Indian women. The film unfolds with them as they wrestle with their day to day existence of being a boxer and the conflicts that surround them. While one of the boxers, is facing hardships to become a champion, the other struggles with the limitations of her own body and need to prove that she too can box like her brother. Using cinema verité style and shot over a period of two and half years, the film articulates the boxers concerns and share experiences and ideas about their future.
