

Nadia Leihs (PhD student, Uni Erfurt/Uni Dortmund)

Brief Curriculum Vitae

Nadia Leihs is a PhD candidate at the Faculty of Communication Studies at the University of Erfurt. She has obtained her MA degree in 2008 at the Faculty of History of Bochum University. Her current research addresses the influence of news room organisation on journalistic content and the media's role in the democratic transformation in Egypt. Since November 2012 she is a research fellow at the Erich Brost Institut for International Journalism at the University of Dortmund. She has long-standing professional experience as freelance journalist for various German media outlets.

Contact Information

Nadia Leihs, PhD candidate at the Faculty of Communication Studies, University Erfurt